Borne on Jerusalem.

Some two years ago a French priest, the Abbé Michon, wrote a little pamphlet recommending, as the best means of propounding the unity of Italy, the use of the Latin language and of the Latin rite in the transfer of the Papacy from Rome to Jerusalem, the cradle of Christianity. This pamphlet attracted the notice of the Pope, who, in his turn, addressed a letter to the Emperor, advising the German Emperor to do the same.

The subject is again raised by a gentleman of a liberal and cultivated mind, and who is already known for his works on the history of the Empire. M. D'Orbigny has addressed a letter to the Emperor, advising Jerusalem as "the mother of the great Gothic" and the "mother of the universal Church." The letter is addressed to the Emperor, and the "Law of the cross and universal God" is spread over the world, "it is clear that in contact with the Latin Empire, God is more easily received by the subjects of Alexander and Borne, civilizing by the legions of Empire, were founded in the East."

Power is to be had, however, after the end of the year.
